Try a Concept Map

Write your topic, or key concept, in the center oval of the page. Write connected concepts in the outer circles. You can add circles anywhere, using connecting lines that show how concepts are related. See the example on the other side of this worksheet.
Here is a concept map that explores the topic, or key concept, of homelessness. The connected concepts show some groups of homeless people. The outer circles represent possible causes for these people to be homeless.